The inmates of the Little Sisters of the

The inmates of the Little Sisters of the Poor, according to their usual custom, religiously observed St. Joseph's Day yesterday, and in the afternoon the old people were given a splendid dinner, which was greatly enjoyed. The Catholic clergy and outside visitors were not present, as has been the case heretofore, as the institution is unable, on account of it size, to accommodate a large number of persons. Mass was said in the morning for the benefactors of the institution and the blessed sacrament was exposed all day, and terminated with benediction by Bishop Van de Vyver.

ROYALL TO LECTURE.

ENTERTAINMENT TUESDAY NIGHT FOR SOLDIERS' MONUMENT FUND.

Camp-Fire and Confederate Songs-Min strels and Specialty at the Theatre-Gossip of the Stage.

Among amusements the most interesting of the coming week will be Mr. William L. Royall's lecture at the Theatre, next Tuesday evening, on the "Life, Times, and Reminiscences of the Private Soldiers of the Confederate Army," and the accompanying camp fire and Contederate songs

The lecture will be for the benefit of the Private Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument fund, and this fact will no doubt bring fund, and this fact will no doubt bring many to the Theatre who rarely see the interior of a play-house.

It goes without saying that the lecture will be very entertaining, Mr. Royail, who is best known to Richmondere as "Buck" Royall, is a man of intellect. As a lecturer he has few superiors. Hisstyle is delightful, and there is an utter absence of the stiffness that characterizes the ordinary public lecturer. The sparkle of his wit, the protundity and perspicacity of his logic, and the ease and simplicity of his delivery eaup him thoroughly for such a work as this, and all who sit in the Theatre next Tuesday evening may be sure of an hour of rare amusement and instruc-Theatre next Tuesday evening may be sure of an hour of rare amusement and instruction. Mr. Royatl naving served as a private in the Confederate army is fully propared to speak on his chosen theme. He will set forth fully the true view of what the private soldier thought and understood he was fighting for at the time; he will relate his own experiences, and those stood he was fighting for at the time; he will relate his own experiences and those of others in illustration of the real life of a private, and will tell of his and others privations as prisoners of war. Mr. Royall was incarcerated for three months at the old Capitol in Washington and for twelve months at Fort Delaware. He will give a full account of the treatment and dealings with prisoners at the former place.

CAMP-FIRE AND CONFEDERATE SONGS.

The Confederate camp-fire will be an attractive feature of the entertainment. In this a number of ex-Confederates will sing some of the songs that stirred our hearts during the days of Dixey. Colonel C. O'B. Cowardin is the mosical director, and among the singers will be Messrs. C. D. Langhorne. Elmore Hotchkiss, Ashton Starke. Thomas Bolling. Polk Miller, Withers Miller, Henry Miller, Toney Miller, Judge E. C. Minor, Charles E. Bolling, William H. Grant. Jr., John F. T. Anderson. Kirk Mathews, Miles Cary, C. O'B. Cowardin. Levin Joynes, James Branch, H. Theodore Ellyson, Fontain Dewitt, Harry Owen, Hardy Pyle, Carter Wormley, Ed. Hanewinckle, E. A. Catlin, William R. Trigg, Colonel A. W. Archer, James P. Wood, John Baseler, George Voelker, Adolph Thilow, Richard Wagner, Frank Cunningham, and William Wagner.

These gentlemen, with the assistance of others who will probably take part, will give two grand choruses, which will be in the nature of medleys. One of these will precede and the other follow Mr. Royall's address. The first chorus will embrace the following popular selections: "Dixie, Glory, Glory, Hallelujah," "Hard Times Come Again No More," "Fairy Bell." "When This Cruel War is Over," "Pirrate's Glee." "Annie of the Vale," "Bonnie Blue Flag."

The medley following the address will CAMP-FIRE AND CONFEDERATE SONGS.

The medley following the address will include the following airs: "Take Me Home." "Vacant Chair," "In the Louisians Low Lands." "Massa's in the Cold. Cold Ground." "Gay and Happy." "Let 'em Bum." "Maryland, My Maryland."

The singers will wear the old Confederate gray. and as many of them are old solders it will be reminder of some of the episodes that made life in Richmond less monotonous when Federal shelts were firing the tree-tops on the Pamuniey and the armes of Lee and McClelian struggled for the mastery.

In response to the calls for tickets to be placed within convenient reach they have been put at West, Johnston & Co.'s, low Main street, at Schem's Branch Store, 525 east Broad street, and at the Theatre. Reserved seats are also on sale at the Theatre.

MINSTRELS AND SPECIALTY PEOPLE.

MINSTRELS AND SPECIALTY PEOPLE.

At the Theatre to-morrow night one of the best minstrels of these times will appear. This is none other than Lew Dockstader, who is beyond question the cleverest burnt-corkist on the stage. He is one of the few whose wit has point, whose jokes are humorous, and who entertains well at all times. There was a time when Lew lived altogether in the atmosphere of New York, and found a congenial habitat year in and year out at a theatre on the East Side; but now Lew though forsooth, he fadeth not) spends his seasons on the road and bends his beaming smile upon others than the jays of the East Side.

He brings his own company with him this year—and it is a good one. George Powers, McIntyre, Heath, and other minor constellations of the ministrel firmament eluster around the Dockstadian planet and reflect his brightness, while littler stars fill in the blank space and tumble merrily about in the background of the Dockstader show.

The representative of the stand is high and the grounds dry.

The following notice of the marriage of Mr. Allison Kellogg and Miss Eleanor Webel, clipped from a Jacksonville paper of the leth, is of interest to many persons in Richmend. The programme is said to be well selected, and while there will be no marked departure from ordinary minstrel precedents there will be plenty of variety. The performance will conclude with "The Hotel Punch de Leon," which is said to be very

I shouldn't wonder if the Theatre is crowded at the Dockstader performance.

Next Friday and Saturday the Theatre will be occupied by the Irwin Specialty Company, who are spoken of in complimentary terms by critics who have seen their performance. MERK GOTHAM.

As usual, I have to take a peep at New York (through the medium of the New York (through the medium of the New York dailies) before I can talk of either news or gossip. I could teil Richmond's little tale in a quarter column of minion.

New York saw several new plays last week and will see another next Thursday when the indefatigable Chevalier Augustin Daly will produce Lord Tennyson's play. "The Forresters." As the theme of this is the tribulations of Robin Hood, I dare not refer to it as a novelty.

The Kendals began their last week at Palmer's on Monday with "Kate Kavanugh," a sombre play by Mrs. Oscar Beringer, an actress manager, and Clo Groves, both of London. It has been tested both in St. Louis and Chicago. The theme is uninterruptedly unpleasant and the prologue offensive. Cousiderable skill is, however, revealed in the construction of the improbable story, which is that of an English woman driven to crime by unkind fate. In the prologue she is the decoy for a gambing-house and then she becomes the wife of a wealthy and stately country Englishman. Later one of the swindled men appear and is about to divulge the story when his college "fag" prevails upon him to keep still. Mrs. Kendal did excellently and achieved almost a triumph. The Lyceum Theatre is in some respects the queerest of all the New York theatres. It is out of the way. People talk or it seldom and the artists employed in it we to a certain extent out of the swim. Still its little auditorium—up a narrow pair of stairs at that—is nightly filled with ultrafashionable audiences, quite satisfied with the mamby-pamby things offered, and any play, no matter what, is good enough for a run. "Merry Gotham," brought out there on Monday, makes a slight change, however, in its conservative management. The French original is that." Paris Fin de Siede," which made somewhat of a stir two years ago in France, and which Miss Elizabeth Marbury has adapted and rechristened for Ameri-France, and which Miss Edizabeth Marbury has adapted and rechristened for American use. It basn't much plot to speak of and no situations or strong scenes. The costumes and scenery are regarded as the features; one scene is in a cafe, another a riverside restaurant, and the last a ball-

Augustus Pitou has been clever enough to withdraw his adaptation of "L'Article 231," which was not a good play, and introduced his excellent company on Monday in a revised version of Clyde Fitch's latest work, "A Modern Match." The theme of the play is forced and unnatural. The principal figure is a woman who is utterly destitute of all the finer elements of her sex, and the surrounding characters are merely puppets without flesh, blood or reasonableness. Kathryn Kydder is no longer a member of the Joseph Haworth Company. There seems to have been a great deal too many y's about Mr. Kydder, so Joseph parted with her and engaged Maida Craigen to play her part for the rest of the season.

The oldest Roman poster has just been found and acquired by the British Museum. It is a thin slab of stone three feet long. In the upper corners are holes for cords so it might be hung up outside the theatre, and it bears the inscription in Latin: "Greus full. Immense applause. Doors shut." It is evidently a standing-room-only sign: ergo, the noble old Roman manager knew his ousiness.

The operatic season in New York closed on Saturday. Clouded at the outset, it went away in a blaze of glory, provoked by the superb singing of Lassalle, the De Reszkes, Albani, Scalchi, and Pattigiani, not to mention the less conspicuous. It has shown that the Wagnerites do not enthuse to any very great extent at $2 a ticket, and that Gotterdaemmerung and Mencherdaemmerung has settled over them for awhile.

CALLED ON THE MAYOR AND GOVERNOR.

Early in the morning the guests from the Hub called upon Mayor Ellyson at his office, and in company with that gentleman and Messrs. William H. Curtis, Edgar H. Fergusson, Charles W. Fergusson and City-Clerk B. T. August paid their re_ects to the Governor. Thence they proceeded to the Council chamber, where the Grounds and Buildings Committee, the City Engineer and his assistant, Colonel John B. The Bostonians were here introduced and the plans of the New City Hail were explained by Mr. Bates, Assistant City Engineer.

The party of visitors consisted of Hon.

Brawley, assistant clerk of committees; David J. McGrath, representing the Boston city press, and Charles E. Silloway, deputy city messenger.

THE TRIP THROUGH THE CITY HALL.

From the Council Chamber the company went overto the City Hall, where a thorough and critical tour of inspection was made. The visitors were taken from the basement to the summit of the cupola and seemed very much pleased with the structure and the manner in which it is being erected. The only work in progress was the grounding for the hard-woods, the laying of the gas- and- steam-pipes, the cutting of chases, and some painting, &c.

It may be relevant to say that Boston proposes to build a new city hall or to remodel the old one, and the cost of the work to be done will reach $4.000,000 or $5.000.000. The city for the past decade has been spending $50.000 per annum for rental outside its present hall, and the Council is eager that this extra outlay shall be stopped. THE TRIP THROUGH THE CITY HALL.

In the tour through the handsome stone be stopped.

In the tour through the handsome stone structure on Broad street everything was satisfactory until the large room, which is to be the Council Chamber, was reached. Here there was a general expression of dissatisfaction. Everybody was of the opinion that it should either be larger or have a spectators' gallery. The apartment provided for the Circuit Court is the most beautiful room in the building. It is on the second floor, south side, and is spacious, airy, and well lighted.

The Hustings-Court room is on the third floor and is also abundantly large. All the private offices will be luxuriantly equipped and splendidly located.

From the tower a view of the surrounding country was had, which was bewildering, and pleased the visitors exceedingly.

DRIVE OVER THE CITY. After a careful scrutiny of the hall the carty took carriages and were driven over the city. The first point of interest taken in was Libby Hill Park, where stands in ourse of crection the monument which is o commemorate the brave deeds of the rivate soldiers and sailors of the Conederacy. From here the carriages were riven to old St. John's cemetery, where he occupants alighted and went through the occupants alighted and went through Captain Frank sang sweeter than he was ever known to sing before, and the pathetic tones of "Far Away." A source of considerable attention and comment was the tombstones and inscriptions which mark the resting-places of many of Virginia's historic dead.

THE DINNER AT THE RUEGER'S.

After enrolling a large number of new names, Mr. Joseph C. Dickerson, president

He defended vigorously the action of the board in retaining colored teachers and janitors.

Mr. Mitchell represented Mr. Jennings, who was detained by sickness, as a candidate for City Sergeant.

Captain Charles H. Epps presented his own claims, and challenged criticism. H. L. Watson represented H. M. Smith. His speech eulogized both the services and claims of Mr. Smith for the position.
